MILKMAN MISTAKEN FOR BURGLAR KILLED BY DALLAS HOUSEHOLDER

Calvin B. Besse, Dallas Milkman, Shot by Louis P. Head, Newspaper Worker, When the Latter Finds Him in Kitchen at Early Morning Hour After Tickets.

(By Associated Press). DALLAS, Nov. 14.—Mistaken for a burglar, Calvin B. Besse, 24-years old, a milk wagon driver, was shot and killed by Louis P. Head, an employee of a local newspaper, this morning in the kitchen of the Head home here. Head was taken into custody, but later released on his personal recognizance to appear before the grand jury today. Besse is survived by his widow. Burial will be at Weatherford, Besse's former home. He was in Head's kitchen, police said, to get bottles and money for the weeks supply of milk tickets.

EASY CURE FOUND FOR "DOWN-IN-THE-BACK" DISEASE OF RANGES

(Special to Bryan Daily Eagle). COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 14.—Conferees here between Sir Arnold Theiler, noted British veterinarian and Dr. H. Schmidt, veterinarian of the Experiment Station of the College, have led to agreement between them and the assent of other scientists of the College and J. E. Boog-Scott, chairman of the State Livestock Sanitary Commission, who have participated in the conferences that the South African disease of cattle known as "lamsickie" and for which Sir Arnold has discovered a cure is identical with the "down-in-the-back" or "loin" disease which is prevalent in Southern Texas and which has killed thousands of cattle in recent years and effectively baffled all the attempts of scientists to overcome.

Identity Suspected. Dr. Schmidt has been in charge of the work that the Experiment Station has done in research on the disease and from information which he was able to obtain about the African disease had calculated its identity but he was not able to obtain full information about curative methods until the arrival of Sir Arnold, who is responsible for the discovery on lamsickie. But of the most importance is the nature of the cure. In its broadest aspect the problem is simply one of malnutrition or the absence of phosphorus from the diet. It has led the animals in the pasture to eat of dead carcasses which furnished a toxin, which in turn caused complete paralysis of the animal.

All Animals Died. Mortality among stricken animals has been practically a hundred percent. There are two methods of prevention, removal of carcasses from the pasture or ministration of three ounces of bone meal to each stricken animal. Of course both steps will be followed by the cattlemen. But in the discovery of the bone meal diet rests the important thing for the cattlemen. At the price of $60 a ton, a dose of three ounces of bone meal for one year will represent a cost of $1.80 and by experiments conducted by Sir Arnold it will give the animal a gain of 180 pound a year over the animal that has pasture alone for feed.

Sir Arnold will leave this afternoon at three o'clock with a committee from the A. and M. College for Houston where he will lecture to the cattlemen and veterinarians of that district tomorrow. Sir Arnold was brought here on the joint invitation of Dr. B. Youngblood, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and J. E. Boog-Scott, chairman of the Texas Livestock Sanitary Commission.

At the meeting of the Reading Club on Tuesday afternoon "The Cathedral" by Hugh Walpole, was the subject for study. This novel had previously been read by each member of the club and lectured on by Prof. W. L. Harrington at the last meeting. In keeping with the subject the roll call was answered to with some thing of the famous Cathedrals of Europe and pictures shown of some of the most beautiful ones. Mrs. C. M. Bethany in a very capable manner acted as leader for the day's program which included a short sketch of the author, Hugh Walpole by Mrs. Fred Jones and interesting comments on "Is the Book Religious?" and "The Thoughts It Brings to Mind" by Mesdames H. R. Brayton and G. R. Crawford. Two beautiful vocal selections were given by Mrs. Webb Howell, accompanied by Mrs. Hendrix Conway, after which they followed a general discussion of the "Cathedral" from the viewpoint of "Is it True to Life?" ### ADDITIONS TO SEATS BRING TOTAL NUMBER TO TWENTY THOUSAND

(Special to Bryan Daily Eagle). COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 14.—Urged by the insistence of local people as well as the general public throughout the state where the desire to see the annual Thanksgiving clash between the University of Texas Longhorns and the Texas A. and M. Aggies is still growing, James Sullivan, business manager of athletics has decided to extend the seating stands at the end of the field to make provision for seat applicants who could not otherwise be accommodated. Only the desire of fans to see the game is prompting this latest move for expansion of the stands for so great is the cost of extending the stands that no profit will accrue to the seller of the tickets. All seats on the sides of the field have been sold. Space in the new addition to the stands is all that is available at this time. This will bring the total capacity of the field for the Turkey day celebration to 20,000, and is the maximum. When the last seat is sold advice will be sent out to people encouraging them not to come to the College on that day unless they are provided with tickets for seats as no one will be permitted on the ground who does not have a seat in the stand. This will be necessary as all available room around the playing field will be taken up for seats.

ALLEN ACADEMY HARD AT WORK FOLLOWING DEFEAT BY FRESHMEN

Since their defeat at the hands of the Aggie Freshmen last Monday the Allen team has resumed hard practice in preparation for their game against Houston High School next Monday. The Allen team suffered only one serious injury in last Monday's game. "Grandma" Vance, their giant tackle, suffered a broken hand which will keep him from participating in the game against Houston High, but it is hoped that he will be able to play in the final game against San Marcos Academy on November 28th.

The Houston High team is conceded to be one of the best passing machines ever developed by a team of its class in the state. There is no man in their backfield that does all their passing, but they have three such talented lads. They are using a system of triple passes which is very deceptive and difficult to block.

Coaches Hudson and Baskin are working hard to have their team perfect in defense for these passes. Their team has been weak on defense for passes all year, and there is no little worry in the Allen camp over the prospect of stopping this brilliant passing machine from Houston.

COPY OF NEWSPAPER DATED MARCH 2, 1770

Ben Marwill relates that his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rosa Steubenrauch, has a copy of the Boston Journal dated Monday, March 12, 1770, making it 153 years and 8 months old. The print on the paper, he said, is so clear that it can be read with all ease. Mrs. Steubenrauch, he said, has another paper which is a copy of the Vicksburg Daily Citizen bearing the date, Thursday, July 2, 1863, and which is printed on the reverse side of wall paper. This was a device many papers of the South were compelled to resort to about that time but only a few such copies are now in existence.

RISING COST OF SCHOOLS LESS THAN LIVING COST

Some persons are becoming very much alarmed over the fact that education is costing more than it did a few years ago. Of course it is costing more. There are more children in the country; more of them are attending school; the schools have become better in every way. The schools are costing more because the value of the dollar has depreciated. A school costing twice as much per pupil now as in 1913 is in reality costing no more now than it did then. In fact the cost of education per pupil in average daily attendance increased only 67.5 per cent from 1913 to 1920. The cost of living increased 100 per cent during this time. Is it fair to assume that when living costs increase, the cost of education must remain stationary? As living costs increase teachers must be paid larger salaries. Fuel is costing more. It costs more to erect and repair school buildings.

Of course the schools are costing more. So are other city, county, and State governmental departments costing more. Isn't it about time the foolish arguments about the increased cost of education cease?—U. S. Bureau of Education.

DIGGING FOR AN EDUCATION.

The President of the United States advises the boys of the United States who are hungry for an education to "dig for it". It is good advice. When one has struggled and labored and agonized in the effort to acquire what we term an education he can better appreciate its possession, and perhaps better apply in the experiences of life than one who came by knowledge along an easier way.

The late lamented President Harding had to dig for his education; President Coolidge intimates that he enjoyed the same experience; one of the most distinguished visitors who ever came to these shores, now with us, had to dig in very truth for the treasures of knowledge which he today holds in fee.

"Dig for it," says the President. And the right sort of boys do dig for it every age and in every clime. The story of the lives of Lincoln and many another American who became distinguished has become trite, but such stories remain forever significant of what may be done in the face of apparently insuperable handicaps. In every college in the land are brave and courageous young men who are "digging for it". They are making the acquirement of knowledge the primary purpose of their lives, as it should be. They may not live so well as others, they may not have so good a time, but when they get through digging they will have the diamonds over which many have walked unseeing.

At the New York university, for instance, students who are "digging for it" in one year have earned more than $1,250,000, not only paying their own way through college, but putting something by as well. One student earned $6,000 in the year. And outside the colleges there is another great and valuable national army of young men and women who are digging for education, digging at night, in spare hours—all these diggers will give some account of themselves, for it is the purposeful diggers of the world who make the world worth while, no matter what it is they dig for.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HUG THE CURB.

A city ordinance says that whenever the fire alarm is sounded all vehicles traveling in the business section shall immediately drive in as close to the curb as possible and remain stationary to avoid a possible crash with the fire wagons. This is a sensible and just regulation. It greatly reduces the danger of collisions and loss of life. But it is too poorly observed. Thursday morning a full minute after the alarm had sounded there were something like a dozen motor vehicles blithely going about their way down the middle of main street. Persons who have no regard for the safety of their own lives should at least regard the safety of the firemen's lives whose business of serving the public with the smallest possible waste of seconds demands that they drive at break-neck speed down the streets when an alarm is turned in.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES.

In view of the concession unanimously and generously made by the Retail Merchants Association to close on Monday in observance of Armistice day and in the absence of a functioning post of the American Legion, it seems to us some public spirited citizen or group of citizens should see that there is some sort of patriotic exercises on that day. Who will take the lead in getting up the affair?

Anderson has organized a Chamber of Commerce, with the following officers: Judge T. P. Buffington, president; Dr. M. E. Park, vice president; A. H. Sinclair, secretary; and T. W. Jennings, treasurer. The purpose of the organization is to work up everything that will improve and be helpful for Grimes county. Anderson has taken a step in the right direction and co-operation of all the citizens in an organized effort with a common purpose for a common cause can accomplish anything they undertake.

ECONOMY IN ROADS

The average automobilist would prefer to drive 30 miles on a good road to get to a desired point than to drive 20 on a poor road. While this decision may be based usually on the greater comfort to be had in using the good road that is only one of the reasons which might be urged in favor of choosing this good road. Travel over bad roads requires the use of more gasoline, so much more that it is quite likely that the motorist who chooses the long road in preference to the poor short one makes a net saving in that matter. But still we have not arrived at the greatest advantage of good roads. Bad roads offer an obstacle to the passage of vehicles, and wagons and trucks find in every road a spot which limits the amount they can carry for the trip. If a two ton truck is able to carry only one ton over the worst place in the road, the whole road might as well be just as bad as the worst part of it so far as the usefulness of that truck is concerned. Railways offer a striking illustration of this principle. Did you ever know a railway to leave a bad grade in its right of way if the grade could possibly be avoided? You have not. Engineers know that to do so would entail a great annual loss. It would benefit a railroad rather to cut down a steep hill and carry the dirt a quarter of a mile away to the corresponding valley to eliminate the grade. And this very thing is done in some instances. If such enormous expenses pay a railroad would not the much less expense necessary to build good concrete roads pay our county?

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE

It has been only about three weeks since S. E. Eberstadt, secretary of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce, addressed the women of Belleville in the afternoon and the business men at night. At these meetings Secretary Eberstadt particularly warned our people against fake peddlers, fake charity solicitors, and the professional canvasser who goes from place to place in the small town and sells articles for a much higher price than the same article can be bought at local stores. It was an enlightening talk—Mr. Eberstadt stated facts.

This week a nice looking young man walked into one of our local stores and offered for sale a little device which will slice potatoes or other vegetables. The little potato slicer salesman talked fast and demonstrated his wares with brisk efficiency. One of the proprietors of the store in which the demonstration was taking place watched with delight—he is an affable gentleman—and by the time the minute hand had made the circle twice, this affable gentleman had purchased a potato slicer and was recommending the article to one near and dear to him. This young wife bought promptly and a saleslady standing by also produced a dollar bill for a slicer. There was, to a scribble near the scene, and his mouth also "watered," and another dollar was given in exchange for a slicer. All hearts were throbbing with the joy of having this labor saving device. About this time the young manager of the establishment appeared on the scene. He viewed the transaction with an eye of charity, but informed the affable store keeper and others interested in this mercantile establishment that this very firm is selling a slicer which does precisely the same work for one half the price—50c. Can you beat? They say there is one born every minute.—Belleville Times.

Herein lies another illustration of the value of advertising. Had that store been a consistent advertiser the public would have made such frequent calls for the cheaper potato slicer that the proprietor who got taken in would not have had a chance to forget that he had it in stock.

WORKING FOR BRYAN

Had you ever observed in reading biographies of highly successful men that they always have a plan for their lives toward whose realization they bend all their efforts? Men rarely become successful by accident. Neither do towns—which are but aggregations of men and women—often make material growth by accident. You and I and the folks we know around us compose Bryan. When Bryan becomes a bigger town and a better town we will make it so. We can do much toward this end acting simply as individuals but we can do much more by acting in concert along an agreed-upon plan. But first we must have faith in our town. Then we next ask ourselves individually, "What can I do to make Bryan a bigger and a better place?" Having answered that question, we must begin to act and to act not only today but tomorrow and the next day. Let us see what are some of the things we could do singly or jointly to improve our town. There is the matter of roads. Roads are likely to be to towns in the near future what railroads have been to towns in the near past. No town which is not on at least one railroad amounts to much as compared to what it might have been. Bryan has the railroads but she does not have the improved highways, and we can not afford to go longer without them. Then there is the important but less tangible matter of civic spirit. Bryan needs more of that. For instance, Armistice Day was not observed here by any general gathering of the public. In this we were lacking in civic spirit.

Brazos county can grow chrysanthemums as good as the best has been proven by the Bryan Nursery and Floral Company for they have tangible evidence both in quantity and quality. We know this because one of these beautiful yellow, feathery blossoms, more than 6 inches in diameter grown in this company's hot house grace our desk. Just another example of where Brazos leads.

FREEZE CONVERTS MUD INTO PAVED HIGHWAY

A story is told of a farmer in northern Illinois, whose farm is located on a dirt road, which is impassable during the winter if a frost comes when the road is in a rough condition. Last fall, when the road was at its worst, he got a radio warning of an immediate and heavy frost. Calling his neighbors by telephone, they turned out and rolled the road. When the freeze came, and the radio owner and his neighbors had a boulevard to town all winter!

USING THE PARK

The city park just east of the H. & T. C. depot is quite an attractive place since having been cleared of the surplus foliage and the long grass which had been permitted to grow there and is now calculated to attract the favorable attention of any passer-by. But why should such an attractive and well lighted place be made no use of other than to please the eyes of those who pass and usually pass entirely too rapidly to pay any attention to the park. Would it not be better next spring to equip the park with a score of rustic benches on which passengers on the H. & T. C. and the interurban might pass away the time while waiting for the cars and which couples might use in the evenings for a place to sit and talk? If any one doubts that such benches would be appreciated, then let them reflect how much the benches just north of the Public Library are used, though they are much less desirably located.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

Lazing is perhaps the greatest problem that College authorities have to deal with. The difficulty in suppressing it, in the last analysis, goes back to the problem of breaking down the sentiment in favor of it within the student body. No executive, however capable, can successfully handle an outbreak of hazing if public sentiment within the student body tends to condone it and shield the guilty parties. Many persons clothed with authority have attempted to suppress hazing often only to find their way blocked by the sentiment of the students and even to find that the victims were shielding their oppressors. But an event which happened in Arizona university suggests a way out of this difficulty. Members of the junior and sophomore classes celebrated Halloween by clipping the heads of every freshman they could find. It happens that Arizona University has student self-government. The student council, taking cognizance of the outrage, decreed that all students who took part in it should submit to the same treatment. When appealed to on their honor, to reveal their identity, seventy-five stood up, marched to the rostrum, and permitted their own heads to be shorn. When we analyze this occurrence we see that it was public opinion—the desire to retain the respect of their fellows—which caused the offenders to submit to this punishment voluntarily. Reasoning from this occurrence, one is led to believe that possibly the most effective way of dealing with hazing would be to permit the students to enjoy self-government and then to inculcate in their minds the belief that hazing is unfair and unmanly.

Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago in a recent speech declared that Chicago was now the driest city in the United States "and it will be entirely dry before my administration is over." "Any public official who does not enforce the law is a traitor. As nominal head of a police force numbering seven thousand able-bodied men, it is nonsense to say I can not enforce our laws. Passing the buck from city to state officials is foolish." More officers like Mayor Dever throughout these United States would soon solve the prohibition problem.

Hon. Richard B. Seagler of San Antonio, formerly of Palestine, is being urged by his friends throughout the state to make the race for lieutenant governor next year. Mr. Seagler as representative from Anderson county in the 38th legislature served his state well as speaker of the House and made an enviable reputation for his fair and just rulings. Men of the Seagler type can be depended upon and are needed in the high places of the State.

Our public highways are getting in bad shape on account of the recent rains. The King of Trails needs some repair and a stitch in time saves nine. Let's keep our roads in good condition that we may draw dividends from the heavy expenditures of constructing them.—Franklin Texan.

Good advice for any community, county, state or nation.

L. W. Culp of Temple, representative from Bell county in the 38th legislature, has announced he will make the race for the lieutenant governorship, beginning an intensive campaign early in January. His candidacy is subject to the democratic primary in July.

The Calvert Tribune after a suspension of several weeks is a welcome visitor again on our exchange list. Mrs. Stella Adams is editor and publisher and we bespeak for the new Tribune success.

FOUNDER OF EAGLE VISITS HIS "BABY"

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
The founder of the Eagle paid a visit to this office Monday. R. M. Smith, a well known lawyer of Quitman who is visiting his niece, Mrs. J. N. Goodwin of Bryan, paid us a social visit in which he related his early experiences in the newspaper field in Bryan. Mr. Smith said that he and his father, R. J. Smith, about 1870 took over and published the Appeal, which in 1875 they sold to Sam Hunter. R. M. Smith in 1876 began the Pilot which ran until the plant burned but not until it had been sold by Mr. Smith. In 1879, Mr. Smith said, he established the Eagle here. He sold it to W. D. Cox of Temple in 1892. After the disaster to the Pilot its name and good will were sold to the Eagle Parentethically, we will say that we even yet receive letters addressed to the "Eagle and Pilot". All the papers in which Mr. Smith had a hand were weeklies. Mr. Smith is such a hale and hearty man that no one would suppose from merely looking at him that he was old enough to run a weekly newspaper 53 years ago. And his days of usefulness are not over yet, for he is actively engaged in the practice of law in his present home, Quitman.

GRIM REAPER VISITS MRS. S. E. BOOKOUT MRS. PRIDDY LEARNS

Miss Bookout was called to the bedside of her mother several days ago, on account of her serious illness. The remains will be carried to Lindale, Smith county, for interment. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon. Miss Bookout has made her home in Bryan for the past several years while holding an office position at the A. and M. College, and has a host of loving friends who mourn with her in this her sad hour of bereavement.

NEGRO HIGH SCHOOL VICTOR OVER HILLSBORO MONDAY

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
The Bryan negro high school football team played Hillsboro Monday afternoon at the West Side Park to a 14 to 0 victory for Bryan. The game was not as one-sided as the score indicates, but rather exciting, according to Dr. A. E. Thompson. The two touchdowns were made in the first and second quarters and no score was made in the last half. That half of the game was devoted to attempts to score by the use of passes and punts. Dr. Thompson said, "This gives the Bryan negro school percentage of 1,000 in their conference. The finances of the team are about breaking even. Dr. Thompson stated.

ROCKDALE CITIZENS GIVEN OIL ACREAGE BY DOCTOR COULTER

ROCKDALE, Tex., Nov. 13.—Dr. H. T. Coulter, on whose 35-acre lease the Iron Mountain Oil Company has brought in one producer, owns a Cherokee strip of land about 1,300 feet long and about 150 feet in width. While making a trip through the field with a Chamber of Commerce official Dr. Coulter pointed out this Cherokee strip, which lies between the San Antonio & Aransas Pass Railroad tracks and the Rockdale-Cameron highway, neither of which could constitute an off-setting property. Dr. Coulter said that he would give the strip to any "company or combination of Rockdale citizens" who would finance the drilling of three tests, stipulating that the operators must be Rockdale citizens.

Returning to town, the Chamber of Commerce man found two experienced drillers and informed them of Dr. Coulter's offer. In less than an hour they had practically obtained the necessary finances, and the company will be completed this week.

Drilling on the Cherokee strip is to begin as soon as an outfit can be placed on the ground. Application for a special permit has been sent to the oil and gas division, as Dr. Coulter owns the land on both sides of the strip, which is adjoining a producing tract.

ASHBURN ADDRESSES SAN ANTONIO CROWD

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 13.—Col. Ike S. Ashburn, commandant of Texas A. and M. College, former newspaper man, who saw service overseas, particularly in the St. Mihiel drive, was guest of honor and chief speaker at the luncheon of the San Antonio Rotary Club Friday. Col. Ashburn reviewed the movements of the Ninetieth Division in the World War, beginning with the organization here, its movement across the country to point of embarkation, its arrival in Liverpool, France, and its final action on the battlefield, closing with reverent mention of the comrades left "over there."

COLLEGE RODEO GOES OVER WITH SUCCESS HERETOFORE UNKNOWN

(Special to Bryan Daily Eagle.)
COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 10.—The Rodeo entertainment Friday night was ushered in by the entrance of Queen Lily Bess of the house of Kyle escorted by His Majesty R. V. Drisdale and attended by her maid of honor, Franchelle Roberts, escorted by Frenchie Le Laurin. Other attendants were the court page, Marquez Ehlinger with his miniature companion, Marie Potts and in their wake came attendants dressed in the gold and silver lace, purple and crimson cloth, pearls, brilliant stones and plumage. The court was completed with a following of movie stars depicting the personages of Hollywood in typical screen appearance; a string of shanks of Aggie and their ladies. They entered to the marching strains of Aggieband music walked half the length of the great arena to the throne at the end of the building. The King and Queen mounted the carpet covered steps to a high position and were seated on the throne with its tapestried canopy. Then followed the attendants led by Martha Rivers Allen and his honor, H. L. Roberts. They bowed and seated themselves on a lower tier of seats. As the last was seated Elaine Bizzell clad in the blooming, riotously colored and turban costume of Nileish folk and effecting the mein of Marion Davies escorted by Sol Bartlett, imitating Monte Blue, led by her Hollywood stars before the eyes of the King and Queen.

Movie Children Pleasing.

In their wake came the movie children led by the elfish Ann Fairman. They played and danced and scampered to their place in the courtly throng as prancing, shying horses announced the arrival of the desert leaders. In streaming chiffon, yellow, red and white bloomers, velvet bodices, bracelets and other heavy body ornaments they came in couples led by Chief Shiek M. M. Tatum and his desert maiden Kathleen Sims. With these seated after a riding show the Queen asked that the rodeo events be started. An exhibition of the gentle animals that have brought fame to the Animal husbandry department gave a change of scenes from human to animal royalty. The horse show was featured by Professor Grou's exhibition of his five gaited horse, an ebony individual with wonderful movement of feet and graceful body. Then came a mild taste of physical risk, with seniors defeating the Animal Husbandry professors in a mounted potato race.

Mechanical Bronchos.

A bucking Ford was the first broncho event and in the vernacular of backstage it "went over strong." With its back wheels and driving mechanism in a contorted unaligned relationship it gave a new meaning to the term "rough rider," but it was ridden without a fall by the man astride its rear end.

The feminine touch was reintroduced in the ladies' riding contest was entered by six campus women and won by Mrs. R. P. Marsteller, who was presented a pair of riding gauntlets by the judge, Captain J. F. Davis.

The branding of a calf brought to the arena the realism of the cattle country and cowboy everyday life. Skill of man was first matched against the skill of beast in the relay race between cavalry and artillerymen and horses. And then followed steer riding and broncho busting in its roughest state with the Aggie busters busting every untamed animal spirit in the ring. To S. M. Kyle went the prize for the best steer riding and to G. W. Stillier for the best broncho riding. But the decision was made on close technique, Sprague and his singing male quartet concluded the evening.

UNITED DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY TO MEET NEXT FRIDAY

L. S. Ross chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday, November 16th, from 3 to 5 p. m. at the home of the president, Mrs. Albert Buchanan. This is to be a very important meeting, and all members are urged to be present. The historical program for the year will be mapped out, and a report of the year just closed will be given in full. No greater privilege is given the women of the south than to perpetuate the history of the days of 1861 to 1865. As the years pass, the importance of collecting data bearing upon that time increase, and the organization of the Daughter of the Confederacy is doing a noble and enduring work for posterity.

BIBLE TO GUIDE AGGIE DESTINY FOR NEXT PERIOD OF FIVE YEARS

(Special to Bryan Daily Eagle.)
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 10.—Assurance that Aggie football tactics are to have Biblical origin for another five years was given yesterday in the signing of Dana Xyephron Bible as head coach of athletics of the A. and M. College of Texas for that period of years. Announcement of the new contract was made by Colonel Ike S. Ashburn, commandant of the College and chairman of the Athletic Council. He did not announce the figure that had been necessary to secure the services of the coach for such a long period of years. It is known, however, that the price was not the strongest inducement to Mr. Bible. He has never asked a salary commensurate with offers that he has had from schools of the Central West and East in the last two years. It has been the appeal of the Aggie spirit that has held him at College Station and the friendships that he has made in his wonderful career as coach. For that reason his continuance here is made more significant, it signifies a human element and individual desire and purpose that could not be bought with money.

GRIMES COUNTY BUSY PLANNING HIGHWAYS

Plans are under way for the holding of good roads bond elections in two new road districts of Grimes county in the near future, according to reports reaching this city. B. A. Stewart, well known Singleton man who was here today, said that a petition will be presented to the Commissioners Court Monday asking that an election be held in that district at once on a proposed bond is that the amount of the bonds that it is proposed to issue at Singleton is $80,000.

The other district that it is reported will ask the commissioners to order an election is Bedia. The amount of the bond issue there is not known here, but it is said that the plans provide for the improvement of the roads in and around Bedia, connecting with the good roads that will be built by the bond issue that has been carried in Madison county.—Navasota Examiner-Review.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE THANKSGIVING GAME

At a meeting of the executive board of the Brazos County A. and M. Ex-Students Association held at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at College, committees were appointed to receive ex-students at the Y. M. C. A. as they arrive for the Thanksgiving game and to provide them refreshments. Ben Marburger was appointed chairman of the reception committee and F. E. Lichte chairman of the refreshment committee. A. and M. headquarters will be at the "Y" and University headquarters at Guion Hall.

CITY COMMISSION ASKED TO FURNISH FIRE CHIEF A CAR

The City Commission met in regular session Friday night to consider routine matters. A petition from the Fire Department was presented asking that the fire chief be provided with an automobile. After discussion, the matter was referred to Finance Commissioner E. J. Jenkins. Fire and Police Commissioner L. L. McInnis, and City Manager E. E. McAdams. They were instructed to report their recommendation next week.

The city manager was instructed to remove the concrete water trough at the south end of Main Street on account of the hazard to traffic and to place there the same kind of marker that is found at other business street intersections. The report on paving bonds previously published in the Eagle was made to the commission. The commission was informed that Charles Saxon and J. D. Conlee, newly appointed officers, had assumed their duties. They also heard the report that D. D. Vashinder had been awarded the contract to do painting work on the old East Side School.

MRS. BROCK VISITS MEXICAN MISSION SCHOOL NEAR TAFT

Mrs. J. L. Brock has recently returned from Taft in South Texas, where she went to look into matters pertaining to the establishment of the Presbyterian school for girls. The purpose of the new school is to give Christian instruction to Mexican girls. The 200-acre donated by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Green, part owners of the Taft Ranch. The site is valued at $27,000 and the donors gave also $10,000 in cash. Presbyterian women gave $50,000 and citizens of Taft, from which the site is only one mile distant, gave a considerable sum. The school is expected to open in September, 1924, and it is planned to provide it with a capacity for 200 girls.

It is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $7,500. W. C. Hutton is the contractor. Mr. Halsell expects the cottage to be completed some time near Christmas.

Anything to sell or trade? Place a want ad in the Daily Eagle.

Contract Expired.
The last contract signed with Mr. Bible expires with the present football season. It was for three years. Mr. Bible came to College in 1916 as freshman football coach and served during the session of 1917 with the varsity team. In the football season of 1918 he was piloting an American flying machine as an observer over the German lines on the French frontier. He returned to the College and was made head coach in 1919. He maintained the record of being undefeated and undefeated on until the fight with the University of Texas in 1920 when the mighty Domingues of the Longhorn squad slipped through his famous defensive line on Thanksgiving Day on Clark field and passed the secondary defense built around Jack Mahan for a touchdown.

But his tactics have given the Longhorns only one victory in four attempts and for that among many other reasons the Aggies love him and cheered heartily by his decision to remain with them for the period that the Athletic Council has invited his presence.

CHRISTIAN PASTOR IS WORTHWHILE CITIZEN

The First Christian church is very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. and Mrs. L. Guy Ament as pastor and wife, for the carrying forward the activities of the organization. Mr. Ament comes to us with his years of experience. His labors have been so varied that he has a large vision in the field of labor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ament spent some time in college together in preparing for their calling. He has served with some of the best churches in the smaller cities, and has succeeded himself several times in his work. His last term he served with the Central Christian church at Sabinal. This was his second term there. Mr. Ament has been engaged in the pastoral work most of his ministry. He has also given himself to the evangelistic field. He has done acceptable work under the direction of the missionary organizations of his brotherhood.

When the late war came he was in for helping the nation in her struggles. He was engaged in the Y. M. C. A. work during the period. He resigned his pastorate at Lufkin, Texas, to enter the welfare work and was ready with his passport to go overseas when the armistice came. He continued with the colors until demobilization was completed. When his camp was emptied and his unit was transferred he resigned and came back to his adopted state, Texas, and entered into his chosen work again.

Bryan has a splendid corps of fine fibered citizens but she always has a welcome for another man of like forward look. Especially is this true when that man comes to our city as the helper of men as to soul interest. We bespeak for him and his good wife a splendid work and a long stay in our city.

Gleissner was priest for the Catholic church at Tours thirty-five years ago. He served there seven and a half years and it was a befitting tribute to him to preach the sermon in this golden jubilee celebration.

BRAZOS COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS CLUB DEPARTMENT

Club Notes and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason

The Cotton Association News, November 10, quotes Mr. P. B. Doty, president of the First National Bank, Beaumont, Texas, as saying, "Co-operative marketing, particularly the co-operative marketing of the Texas cotton crop under the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association is one of the best things that has ever happened to Texas."

Co-Operative Marketing.

Farm Bureau News quotes Theodore Price, editor and publisher of Commerce and Finance, as saying, "Co-operative marketing, particularly the co-operative marketing of the Texas cotton crop under the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association is one of the best things that has ever happened to Texas."

Prosperous Farmers.

Farmers in the Cook's Point community, Burleson county, are already busy breaking land, preparatory to making a crop in 1924. These farmers around Cook's Point are known far and near as being prosperous farmers. Plows in the Brazos bottoms, on the Brazos county side, are beginning to break land, now that cotton picking is about over.

First Club to Re-Organize.

At a regular meeting of the Knott Prairie boys' and girls' club last Saturday night the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Sam Saladin, president; Joe Triola, vice president; Katie Cash, secretary; Miss Rae Wilcox, adult club leader. At the next meeting of the club the new officers will be installed, and a program specially arranged for this particular event. The meeting Saturday night was one of the best the club has yet held, helpful talks, important announcements, and interesting games being among the events of the evening. The six apple races were interesting and exciting, bringing the whole house to its feet in an effort to pick the winner. The following were the winners in the races: First, Tony Saladin, second race, Joe Triola; third, Dominec Triola; fourth, Sam Saladin; fifth, Corrida Mauro; sixth, Estelle Wilcox. Estelle also won in the problem, that if a hen laying 123 eggs should be worth $1, how much would a hen be worth that would lay 150 eggs, counting 100 eggs necessary to pay expenses of the hen for the year? What do you guess her answer was? County Agent C. L. Beason, after calling attention to the great poultry show to be held on December 5-6-7, and telling club members to be there with their best birds, introduced Mr. Newton Burrows, who made an interesting talk along the line of "conspicuous production." Meet us at Steele's store club next Saturday night, and at Woodville the fourth Saturday night. The boys and girls of Brazos county are "rearing to go," if we will only help and encourage them, the future citizens of a great tomorrow.

A Community Plan.

In her Brazos County Day talk, 1922, Mrs. J. Walter Smith of Millikan, said, "Wisdom is knowing what to do; skill is knowing how to do it, but real human service is characterized in the doing." She gave as a suggestive program for community development: 1. Organize in a business way. 2. Have definite plans. 3. Provide a motive for young people. 4. Employ more efficient teachers. 5. Erect a brick school building. 6. Improve all living conditions. 7. Clean up, point up, beautify. 8. Promote thrift and industry. 9. A public barbecue, rural life conference and a fair to be given annually.

Cull Hens Carefully.

In culling your flock better be careful and not take out some of your best layers because they look ragged. Farm and Home Hint No. 150, Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas, says, "A hen that goes into the molt with worn and ragged plumage is a better layer than the bird with no such marks that bespeak hard work during the preceding year." Read all the other 12 suggestions in this bulletin.

Good Turkey Prices.

State Marketing Bulletin, November 15, states that the turkey market opened this fall lower in price than since 1917, but suggests that the increased demand in the East for meats, the keen demand for fresh killed stock, the general prosperity of the Texas farmer enabling him to market his turkeys more orderly, and with indications pointing to a favorable freight delivery deal for Texas offerings, all point to a stable market and adding that bids of 22 cents are bringing but light supplies. In many sections of the state the farmers are pooling their turkeys and marketing them to good advantage. The farmers of Brazos county are beginning to see the advantages that might be derived from co-operative marketing. Local and other buyers could certainly afford to pay more for turkeys pooled and collected by the farmers themselves than could be paid when the buyer has to collect the birds or hire middle men to purchase them.

Poultry Hints.

Farmers' Bulletin 1111, U. S. Department of Agriculture, gives the following five chief essentials in the management of growing chicks: "Good coops or house, cleanliness, proper feed and water, shade and free range."

Ration for Dairy Cows.

J. Lynn Thomas, Dairy Husbandman, Extension Service, says, in Bulletin No. C-7, "Some dairymen can not seem to break away from the idea of hulls and meal as a ration for a dairy cow. This can not be made to furnish the necessary feed nutrients except for a cow of very low producing ability." Read this little bulletin and learn how to calculate a balanced ration for your dairy cow. Bulletin is free for the asking.

Who Knows?

Where can a man buy a cap for his knee?
Or a key for the lock of his hair?
Can his eyes be an academy
Because there are pupils there?
In the crown of his head what gems are found?
Who travels the bridge of his nose?
Does the calf or his leg get hungry at times,
And devour the corn on his toes?
Can the crook of his elbow be sent to jail?
Where's the shade from the palm of his hand?
How does he sharpen his shoulder blades?
It's something I can't understand.
—Tractor Farming.

Preserve Manure.

It is said that the farmers of the United States lose $40,000,000 annually through failure to take care of barnyard manure. Will your farm plans for this fall and winter be such that you will contribute to this gigantic loss? Our farm lands in Brazos county need every pound of barnyard manure possible to get on them, but don't put the manure in a gulley where it will soon wash away. Terrace your land.

"Ideal Demonstration."

"I'd rather see a sermon than hear one any day.
I'd rather one should walk with me than merely show the way.
The eye's the better pupil and more willing than the ear.
Fine counsel is confusing, the example's always clear;
And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds
For to see the good put in action is what everybody needs.
I can soon learn to do it if you'll let me see it done;
I mean watch your hands in action
But your tongue too fast may run,
And the lectures you deliver may be very wise and true,
But I'd rather get my lesson by observing what you do;
For I may misunderstand you and the high advice you give,
But there's no misunderstanding how you act and how you live."
—Edgar A. Guest.

COMMITTEE REPORTS ON CONDITION ROAD BRYAN TO GAS WELL

(From Tuesday's Daily)

The directors of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce met in regular session at 10 a. m. Monday at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. In the absence of President J. M. Gordon, first vice President E. E. McAdams presided. J. E. Covey, chairman of the special committee on highways which consists of H. O. Boatwright, W. S. Higgs, J. D. Martin, E. W. Crenshaw, and M. E. Wallace, reported that the committee had made a trip over the road from Bryan to the Carlos oil well Wednesday, November 7, and that they found the road in very good condition from Bryan to Amos Williams farm, in fairly good condition from there to the bridge at the Ferguson crossing of the Navasota, but from there on through Grimes county to the well the road was very poor. The committee recommended that the road be dragged and that the abutments to the bridge fixed. This work, Mr. Covey said, the committee would attend to at once but other than that they could not recommend that any work be done on the road. It was reported to the directors that the county force of road workers under Judge H. O. Ferguson is today working on the mud hole near Benchley.

Those present at the meeting of the directors were: Wilson Bradley, W. H. Cole, Mayor Tyler Haswell, John M. Lawrence, T. K. Lawrence, County Attorney Oak McKenzie, Major L. L. McNinn, City Manager E. E. McAdams, Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, J. E. Covey, and Secretary S. E. Eberstadt.

WOOD GLASS HELD UP BY HIGHWAYMAN

(From Tuesday's Daily)

James Mason, a negro, about 30 years old living on the Templeman plantation in Brazos county near Navasota, Monday night held up Wood Glass of the same community as he was coming from Navasota. The weapon used was a butcher knife. Mr. Glass knocked the negro off his car with his fist. A little after sunrise Sheriff L. E. Morehead was on hand and arrested the negro. He was lodged in jail at Bryan to await action of the grand jury in February.

ROTARIANS LISTEN TO PROPOSALS FOR BRYAN CHAUTAUQUA

(From Thursday's Daily)

F. E. Lichte of College gave before the Rotary at their regular luncheon Wednesday a discussion of the advantage a cotton mill would be to Bryan. ## WALTER WIPPRECHT KILLS BIG BUCK IN MOUNTAINS NEAR KERRVILLE, TEXAS (From Thursday's Daily)

Walter Wipprecht, business manager for A. and M. College, and sister, Miss Elsie Wipprecht, returned late Wednesday afternoon from Kerrville, where they had been on a visit to relatives. While there Mr. Wipprecht went up to the Real Ranch near Kerrville for a few days deer hunt and as tangible evidence that he is a successful hunter, he brought back to Bryan a big buck, that he killed his first day out.

The Aggie Freshmen 20, Allen Academy 9, was the result of the game yesterday afternoon on Allen field, when one of the most sensational games of the season was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic crowd. The Aggie Freshmen finally emerged the victor by the score of 20 to 9. The game was much more interesting than the score would indicate. The green Allen team completely outplayed their heavier opponents throughout the entire first half of the game. Early in the second period of play Woodworth of Allen was substituted for Hamilton and he immediately kicked a field goal from placement on the Aggie thirty-yard line. The Freshmen could not make a single first down throughout the entire first half of the game, but time and again the Allen team would reel off first downs during this period. Late in the second quarter Burgess of Allen got away with a beautiful end run of 35 yards being downed on the Aggie's two-yard line, but what probably cost the Allen team a touchdown at this time was a penalty for offside. Only one time was the Allen goal in danger during the first half and this was after a costly fumble by an Allen player on his own ten yard line. But at this point the Freshmen were held for three downs and when they attempted a forward pass into the end zone, which was grounded and the ball going to Allen on her own 20 yard line.

The second half was the undoing for the Allen team and the Freshmen were much more consistent with their offensive work during this period. Early in the second half one of Allen's passes was intercepted by an Aggie Freshman who ran sixty yards for a touchdown. Another touchdown came for the Freshmen after an Allen player attempted to leave the field and then returned to play which cost the Allen team a heavy penalty and placed the ball on their ten yard line, and from this point the ball was finally carried over by Dansby for their second touchdown. The third touchdown for the Freshmen came in the last period of play after the most consistent offensive the Freshmen displayed throughout the afternoon. The ball being advanced most of this time by well executed passes and the final touchdown for the Freshmen came after a beautiful twenty yard pass from Dansby to Pistole.

The last few minutes of play witnessed one of the most sensational runs of the afternoon when Mensing of the Allen team received the Freshman kick-off on his own fifteen yard line and after sidestepping and squirming his way through five or six Freshmen tacklers ran through the entire Freshmen team a distance of 85 yards for a touchdown. The defensive work of Dansby for the Aggie Fish was the outstanding feature of their teams play. His passing and generalship was good, but he was outclassed for the afternoon in his punts by Cloud of Allen.

The game was clean and hard fought from whistle to whistle, and both teams deserve much credit for the brilliant game displayed. The Allen team on next Monday meets the fast going Central High School of Houston at Allen Field.

Besides this the D. A. R. is giving 25 cents per capita all over the United States for a manual printed in eight different languages to be distributed among the immigrants, informing them about where each one may find the work for which he is best fitted, the location of mines, factories, agricultural districts, etc. Another commendable work is the gift of five cents per capita all over the United States for preserving the National Old Trails. In Texas granite markers have been placed every five miles to mark the Kings Highway through Texas. This road is the Canano Real which extended from Nacogdoches to the City of Mexico.

Mesdames Anna Manley, L. J. Falcague and J. H. Edingurg visited Singleton Sunday.

R. H. Chatham of the Exchange Store, College, was among the hunters Monday.

Let everybody help the club women in the effort to put out in Bryan many hundreds of these ornamental shrubs.

BRYAN BUSINESS MEN HOPEFUL AFTER TRIP TO CARLOS GAS WELL

(From Friday's Daily)

The party of Bryan business men who visited the Carlos well 26 miles east of Bryan Wednesday are almost unanimous in their belief that the field has great possibilities as a gas producing area and possibly as an oil area. They relate that the fine sand lying about the well and the worn steel cable which formerly held up the drill stem before it fell into the well give evidence of the terrific flow of gas that escaped from the well before the drill stem fell. They say that preparations are being made to sink at least one more well in the vicinity and that they met a number of representatives of the big oil and gas companies while there and understand that a perfect stream of such men has visited the well since it blew in a gasser. Considerable trading in leases has been done, they report. The well, they said, stands in the midst of a virgin pine forest.

The momentary success of this well and the showing of oil at places in Brazos county give ground for the expectation that Brazos county will in just a few years be an established oil producing area. There seems to be no doubt that the gas and oil are under us and it will merely be the work of a few years to determine just where it is.

NEW SURE WAY TO END BILIOUSNESS

Torpid Liver Fills Body With Poisons—Peppinated Calomel Guaranteed to Relieve Between Sundown and Sunup—No Nausea.

Calomel is the only medicine that will actually reach the liver, but ordinary calomel is so drastic that many have deprived themselves of its fine effects because of its harshness. This objection has been overcome in Peppinated Calomel. Many who formerly could not take calomel are finding a most acceptable remedy in Peppinated Calomel because it is English Calomel (which doctors recognize as the standard of purity), treated with pepsin and other soothing ingredients that not only stimulate the liver to normal action, but sweeten the stomach and aid digestion. Many report that the use of Peppinated Calomel unclogs their systems of poisons, causes waste, brings back appetite, causes dullness to disappear and makes them "feel like new!"
M. H. James Dr. Co., and all reliable druggists recommend and guarantee Peppinated Calomel to bring relief between sundown and sunup or your money refunded. Try it—we guarantee you'll feel better tomorrow. (Adv.)

PROHIBITION FIGHT IS ONLY WELL BEGUN AVERS ANTI-SALOON SUPT.

"The fight is not over," said Rev. Atticus Webb, superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon League Sunday night in addressing a union audience at the Baptist church, "and it is only the propaganda of bootleggers and distillers which would have us believe the prohibition fight is over."

The speaker was introduced by Rev. H. C. Willis. Prior to the beginning of the sermon Mesdames J. Webb Howell and Gabe Cazell sang a duet. Mrs. I. E. Reynolds of the Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Ft. Worth, sang a solo by request. Rev. L. Guy Ament, incoming Christian pastor, was introduced to the union audience. He and Rev. W. N. Sholl pronounced prayers. Dr. John A. Held was master of ceremonies.

Leads in Conflict.

The text of the speaker of the evening, Rev. Atticus Webb of Dallas, was taken from Matthew 10:34. "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I am come not to send peace but a sword." "We have come to think of Christ as the Prince of Peace," began the speaker, "but He is not for peace at any price. He did not come to lead a set of mollycoddles. He came to lead real soldiers into battle. He is leading an age-long conflict with the forces of evil. He is leading his cohorts on to conflict and ultimate victory."

"Today we are celebrating the armistice of five years ago when monarchy turned ends with its sword in token of surrender to democracy. The boys who were released then came back not to a life of peace but they came back to carry on the struggle just begun. To you of the American Legion here tonight I am calling that you will enlist under the banner of Christ. We have before us a great battle for the moral right. The bootleggers would have you believe there is no fight. The devil likes a quiet place in which to work, and the liquor traffic hates agitation."

"When the eighteenth amendment was adopted and the Volstead Act passed the first thing the liquor forces did was to go into court to test its legality. The Anti-Saloon League was there to meet them. Wayne B. Wheeler, unselfish servant of the League, met them not only there, but in many other contests which followed. Though whipped at almost every turn, the liquor forces have not yet quit."

Began Propaganda.

"The next move of the liquor forces was to start propaganda detrimental to the League and designed to cripple the enforcement of the prohibition laws. One very harmful piece of propaganda they put out is that the fight is over and there is no further need for agitation or watchfulness. Having succeeded to some degree with this propaganda, they next put out the propaganda that prohibition had been a failure because the laws were too drastic to permit enforcement. Prohibition has not failed. If it had failed as much as the liquor forces claim they would be shouting instead of howling.

"A criminal district judge in Dallas—I use my terms advisedly—who is in inveterate foe of prohibition, used an opportunity given him to talk over the radio to broadcast the statement that prohibition had failed and that there were more drunks in Dallas now than before prohibition. I went to the county records to see what they showed about the matter. I found that in 1917, the last year of liquor, there were 4,100 arrests for drunkenness, and that in 1922, when there were 60,000 more folks in Dallas, there were but 1,339 arrests for drunkenness. In 1917 we sent to the Gatesville reformatory 55 boys. (It does not seem that there was any reformatory for girls at that time.) Last year, with 60,000 more people in Dallas, we sent only 35 boys and girls to reformatories.

"But," say the apologists for liquor, "you will have to admit that this terrible bootleg stuff we are getting in the days of prohibition kills more men than the good, old fashioned bottled in bond stuff did. I admit nothing of the kind. Reliable figures will show that bootleg kills only half as many men as the greater quantity of bottled-in-bond did."

The Real Difficulty.

"The next line of propaganda the liquor forces put out was that, since National prohibition has gone into effect, the States have nothing to do with the matter. In some instances county enforcement officers, acting on this theory, have refused to act. It is my candid opinion that National prohibition will never succeed until the States get on the job. The reason for this is principally that Federal prohibition officers are appointed on recommendation of local political bosses, who, at least in Texas, are against prohibition almost to a man. Of the three cabinet officials entrusted with the enforcement of prohibition two are opposed to its enforcement. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who has a prominent part in prohibition enforcement was formerly a wealthy distiller and today owns stock in a number of banks who hold paper against distilleries which is, in turn, secured by bonded whiskey and on which the banks cannot cash in until this whiskey is sold. Some means must be devised to take prohibition out of politics before it can ever be a real success."

A. & M. YET HAS CHANGE OF SUCCESS IN FOOTBALL YEAR

Team	P	W	L	T	Pct.
S. M. U.	3	3	0	0	1.000

Texas A. & M.	2	0	1	1	.000
Rice	3	0	3	0	.000

(By Jinx Tucker, News-Tribune Sports Editor)

The Southwestern conference entries are rounding into the home stretch. They have passed the three-quarter post with the final result very much in doubt. In a way, however, the race is very similar to that of last year. It is going to take the two last games to determine the issue, and should history repeat itself, the same teams winning on Thanksgiving day as won last year, the 1923 Southwestern conference championship will rest where it now lies—in the lap of the Baylor Bears.

If Baylor can win from S. M. U. on Thanksgiving day, the worst the Bears can do will be to tie Texas for the flag. Of course, Baylor showed everything it had against Texas, and S. M. U. had the game well scouted. The plays used Saturday are not likely to work against the Mustangs, but the Mustangs have no such of fence as the Longhorns.

Aggies in Cellar.

The Texas Aggies, pre-season favorites for the title, are now battling with the Owls for the cellar championship. This week the Aggies meet the Owls in Houston in what should be an Aggie victory, and the Farmers yet have hopes of a successful season. A victory over Texas Thanksgiving Day would bring the Aggies that success.

No doubt the Longhorns learned much in that game in Waco Saturday. It was the first real opposition the Steers have had this season, and they will be in much better shape for the Aggies than had been expected. This week, however, Texas will find its hands full in the Oklahoma Sooners. The Oklahoma Sooners are coming along at a rapid clip, and will come to Texas confident of branding the Longhorns. That game in Austin Saturday is going to be the greatest contest in the southwest for the day.

S. M. U., however, will play another conference game this week. The Mustangs will meet the Oklahoma Aggies, but it is not likely that the Oklahoma Sooners will be the Mustangs much. The Ponies are almost certain to go into their final conference tilt undefeated, though Arkansas smeared their unscored on record last week. The Razorbacks gave the Mustangs quite a battle, but this had been expected.

JUST A DAWG

By W. L. Harrington

It was on College Avenue at the time the traffic rushes onward to College. Automobiles of every "vintage" go by. The cars stop, and now they stop at every corner, for which we are duly thankful, but the automobiles don't stop and it is with difficulty that one boards the cars. Large bodies move slowly. Perhaps the drivers of the machines figure on a more rapid movement on the part of the common folks who ride the cars. It may be that they forget that we allow the ladies to enter first. But who can fathom the mind of a person driving an automobile? It is far from the intention of the writer to make the attempt. He may take a chance in boarding the car but he refuses to take the chance in figuring what the automobile driver may do. These are the ordinary occurrences of the early car in the morning.

Dangerous "Animals."

Automobiles are dangerous "animals." I have long since found that out, but a motorcycle is way beyond any word in my vocabulary. The other day there was a dog. It was of the "dawg" variety. Just simply "dawg" but somebody wanted him. Some boy liked him, because he was well fed, his coat was sleek, he had a good place to sleep. Somebody's pet, I don't know whose. Does it matter? Curiosity is an attribute of women, we are told, but I find the male sex has quite a deal of it, and a dog possesses a good deal too.

It was a little group standing on the corner, laughing and joking, happy in the milder air, for it is hard to laugh at a joke when one is cold. The "dawg" wanted to be a part of it. He was interested. Did I not say he was somebody's pet? One of these instruments of destruction called motorcycles came. The driver by good luck or wisdom left the little group safe, but the "dawg"—it was a slight turn of the machine. It soon righted itself and passed on, but it left in its wake, lying on its back, a broken, howling, miserable "dawg." He howled; he moaned; he cried and he was still. He was just a "dawg" but he had life and the moment before was enjoying that life. Curiosity and a malignant machine were his undoing. It was a tragedy. Those in the car felt the tragedy. One man in looking upon him said, "Loan me your gun. I can't stand to see him suffer." He was just a man of the very plain sort, but he had a heart, and, I am sure, a soul.

Gloom Comes.

The car rolled on. The jests and talking ceased and there was a gloom cast over those in the car. I don't know what became of the "dawg." I don't know to whom it belonged but in this little tragedy I learned some things. The lesson is on one but it is good once in a while to be reminded of it. First youth is reckless, thoughtless, maybe careless, and oh, so much damage follows in the wake of these three faults. Again, men are good. They may be weak, but they have hearts and those hearts beat with charity and kindness even for a "dawg." Isn't it fine to think that a great, strong man—with great rough hands is too kind, too tender-hearted to stand the cries of a "dawg" in his death agonies? Isn't it fine to think that the safety of the republic and state is in the hands of those who are most numerous—just common folks, when you come to think that their hearts beat soft and they "can't stand to hear the cries" of a little "dawg." The incident cast a gloom over me but when I looked around and saw the affect upon those who were a minute before happy, careless, I felt that it was good, mighty good, to know that the world, with all its faults, was still tenderness and kindness.

The "dawg" is dead, but he did good in his death. If nothing else, he showed by his death the better side that men have and convinced me, who may have doubted of late, that the world is still kindly hearted. He was just a "dawg" but he did a little work and the results of his death were good.

DRUNKENNESS RARE SINCE PROHIBITION SAYS L. E. MOREHEAD

One of the great national magazines is conducting a prize-letter contest to determine what the American people think of prohibition. Being prompted by a desire to know how prohibition had worked in Brazos county, a representative of the Eagle asked Sheriff L. E. Morehead a few questions about the matter. The sheriff said: "Of 11 killings in a certain 18 months about 8 years ago which came under my observation, 9 were the result of drunkenness. In the last 18 months there has been but one killing in Brazos county, and it was not the result of drunkenness. There has, in fact, been no killing in this county which resulted from drunkenness since prohibition went into effect. There were ten times as many arrests for drunkenness before prohibition as there are now. There is now an average of not more than one drunken man per month. In whisky days there were from one to 25 each Saturday."

"Crimes of violence and bank robberies," continued the sheriff, "are seldom committed until the criminals have first tanked up on whisky. There were 13 arrests here last year for manufacture of liquor, but because the law then made it nearly impossible to convict, cases were not filed. The present law makes conviction much easier. For instance, if a man is found with more than a quart of whisky in his home he is subject to arrest and conviction without regard to how he got the whisky and what he meant to do with it."

OLD SETTLERS OF STEEP HOLLOW RENEW FRIENDSHIPS AT CEMETERY

Sunday was a great day at Steep Hollow church, it being "Old Settlers' Day," celebration of Armistice Day and the annual meeting of the Steep Hollow cemetery association. Crowds of former residents of the community now living in adjoining counties and other parts of the state, returned for the day, and enjoyed meeting again with old time friends and neighbors.

Rev. J. M. Bullock, the beloved pastor of the church, preached at the 11 o'clock hour, taking for his text the words of scripture "What Think Ye of Christ." A message of love and Christian helpfulness was brought in great power to the people, and the hour was one long to be remembered by the large audience. At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served under the giant oak trees near the church. Reminiscence of the days of long ago when the old settlers as school boys and girls played beneath the same old trees, the intervening years with their days of sunshine and shadow, and the present fellowship of the day were discussed around the table. Smiles and tears intermingled as the conversations went on, and the "days of old lang syne" were lived over again.

At 1 p. m. a program in honor of Armistice Day was given in the church, as follows: "The Church in the Wild Woods", male quartette, E. U. Peters, J. E. Hensarling, J. C. Cloud and John Whitten. "America", sung by the entire congregation. Reading "In Flanders Fields", by Elsie Yardley. "America's Reply", Bessie Lou Wiley. "My Mother's Prayer", male quartette. Vocal duet, "Whispering Hope", Bessie Lou and Maudelle Wiley.

Association Convenes.

The annual meeting of the Cemetery association was then called to order by I. M. Cook, who outlined the work that has been accomplished during the past year, after which he called upon T. P. Hall, treasurer for a report of the finances of the association. Mr. Hall made an itemized report of all moneys received and paid out by the association since its organization in 1917. He showed a balance in the treasury of something over $150 to begin the work of another year. At this point, many of those present as visitors for the day took opportunity to express their very great appreciation of the splendid work done by the association, assuring them of the comfort it brought to their hearts to know that the graves of their loved ones there, were being cared for by loving hands. It is the hope of the cemetery directors, that during the present fall, many ornamental shrubs and flowers will be planted in the cemetery to beautify and adorn the city of the dead, and the statement was made by Mrs. I. M. Cook, who always takes a deep interest in such work, that if the shrubs were sent to the directors, they would be planted out and cared for by the association.

The annual election of a board of directors resulted as follows: E. U. Peters, T. P. Hall, I. M. Cook, Mrs. J. W. Wiley, J. D. Martin, W. H. Buchanan, Miss Laura Mims, J. E. Hensarling, C. M. Rinsinger, Rev. J. M. Bullock, Mrs. I. M. Cook, H. P. Dansby, Miss Lola Foster. Officers for the ensuing year were then elected as follows: C. M. Rinsinger, president; Miss Laura Mims, secretary-treasurer; I. M. Cook, business manager.
